

One click access to library subscriptions

On average it takes researchers between five and fifteen clicks before they reach the full-text PDF that they need.

Kopernio is a free browser plugin that helps researchers save time accessing full-text journal articles by bringing your subscriptions as well as open access content into researcher's workflows at their point of need.

By traveling with researchers as they browse the web, Kopernio intelligently integrates with over 20,000 academic platforms to help researchers get seamless, one-click access to journal articles whether they are, whether on or off-campus.

Maximize the value and impact of your library's collections for your patrons with one-click access across thousands of discovery platforms.

Understand your researchers content needs by letting Kopernio redirect usage back to COUNTER compliant resources from the open web.

Turbocharge your researcher's literature discovery and access with one-click access to licensed library resources and open access content.

"Kopernio has proved itself to be an incredibly useful and powerful tool. On more than one occasion it has helped us find elusive full-text content for students. Plus it's incredibly easy to install and use!"

Robert Flatley, Electronic Resources Librarian, and Associate Professor
